EXTENUATING CIRCUMSTANCES AND MEDICAL EVIDENCE

Students are allowed to draw the attention of the Board of Examiners if there is any significant personal circumstances which they believe may have affected their performance in one or more assessments, or have caused them to miss a coursework deadline or to be absent from an examination. Such submissions must be made in writing, and an Appeal for Extenuating Circumstances During Examination Form (EO-19) completed with supporting documents, e.g. medical certificate or parent/ guardian’s letter.

A student who is absent from the final examination MUST inform the College’s Examination Office and Head of Programme / Programme Officer of the extenuating circumstances within 72 hours from the scheduled examination.

The Board of Examiners is required to make their decisions on students’ academic grades, and their progression and awards, with respect to actual achievements. Boards cannot determine what grades would have been achieved by candidates had their circumstances been different.

Examination Boards will not use extenuating circumstances to change the results of an assessment. Extenuating circumstances may be used to offer a deferral or referral.

ACADEMIC DISHONESTY (AD)

Definition: Using someone else's work, ideas, answers, etc. and claiming it as your own original work, ideas, answers, etc. in an academic setting. (knowingly or unknowingly)

There are other cases of academic dishonesty besides the usual cheating during formal exams, tests, quizzes by copying, bringing in notes/answers, working with or helping friends. Other examples of academic dishonesty include the following, but not limited to only these examples:

- Plagiarism: using another person's work as your own work (knowingly or unknowingly) without acknowledging the source properly.

To avoid plagiarism, you must always include proper referencing and citations for all the material you used in completing your assessments (coursework, assignments, projects, take-home tests/exams and open book tests/exams) You need to state clearly exactly what words or ideas have come from which source if they are not your original ideas.

Such material can be published or even unpublished sources. It can be a textbook, magazine, newspaper, online or other electronic media, lecture slides, notes, class hand-outs, other students' work, work from friends, relatives and family. This includes using your own work from another class, college or even from the same class, which you may be repeating. (Resubmitting the same work upon request from lecturer is not counted here)

Besides words, it can also be pictures, graphics, computer code, math or scientific working, etc. If you are unsure, always check back with your lecturers.

It is also considered plagiarism if you use software or other online resources to help you deliberately avoid plagiarism and also translating a source from another language and not citing the source properly.

Other forms of academic dishonesty include:

- Collusion: helping your friend with the answers intentionally or unintentionally.

Common examples are when you share the softcopy of your work , a classmate copies your work from your laptop/flashdrive without your knowledge, letting others take a photo/screenshot of your work to help them. If they submit the whole or even part of your work, both you and your friend will be considered to be guilty of collusion.

NEVER give your friends a copy (softcopy or hardcopy) of your work, tests, etc. until AFTER the submissions are closed. Ideally you should only let them see if when the lecturer has marked and returned it to you.

- Contract Cheating: getting someone else to do the whole or a part of your assessments (coursework, assignments, projects, take-home tests/exams and open book tests/exams).

This also involves going to online sites to buy an assignment, paying someone to do it for you, or even getting a friend or relative to help with the assessment for you.

- Falsification: Making up or changing data, information, results, claiming to have completed experiments, interviews which you haven't done and using this in your assessments. This also includes making up fake citations and references.

IICS library has resources to assist you in doing proper referencing. You can always see your lecturer or consult the Teaching & Learning dept for help.

PROCEDURES ON HANDLING ACADEMIC DISHONESTY (AD)

1. A suspected Academic Dishonesty (AD) act is one committed by a student or candidate who in doing so is suspected of cheating in a test, a project, an assignment, a final examination or a component of an assessment that contributes marks to a course evaluation.
2. The evidence of the AD act is then sent to the Examinations Office together with a report by the lecturer/officer. The collated report by the Examinations Office is then sent to the relevant School according to the subject involved with a copy sent to the school in which the student is enrolled.
3. The details of the report are as given in the Academic Dishonesty Form issued by the Examinations Office.
4. The evidence of the AD can be one or more of the following:
 - a. Unauthorized material brought into the examinations venue by (or found on) the student;
 - b. Data written on parts of the body such as the palm of the hand, etc. This should be photocopied; if not, the evidence should be described and verified by another lecturer/officer.
 - c. Communicated with an unauthorized person; or
 - d. Participated in an act that in the opinion of the officer-in-charge/supervisor/invigilator constitutes an act of AD
5. After the evidence had been obtained, the student under suspicion of AD, should be allowed to complete the test or examination. However, no extra time is given to the student concerned.
6. The student suspected of AD is instructed to contact the officer-in-charge of AD, in the particular School (as per the examinations paper) after the particular examinations paper at the latest or by the next working day.
7. The officer-in-charge of AD will then interview the student for his/her explanation on the AD. The date and time of the AD hearing is then set. (The date of the AD hearing is normally set as soon as possible or in the first week of the new semester if the AD was committed during the final semester examinations.)
8. The following documents are prepared by the officer in-charge for the School Academic Dishonesty Committee's (S.A.D.C) hearing:
 - a. A report by the invigilator/officer containing the evidence;
 - b. Materials such as question paper, colour of answer booklet and loose paper on that examination day;

- c. A report, a summary of the interview, a sample of the student's handwriting if relevant, whether the materials confiscated are relevant for the examinations etc. by the officer in-charge of AD;
 - d. Written statement by the student (including a plan of his/her sitting position in the examination venue);
 - e. The student's file;
 - f. Any other matters that may help the School Academic Dishonesty Committee (S.A.D.C.) in its deliberation.
9. The composition of the S.A.D.C is as follows:
Chairman : Dean of the School or Person Appointed by the Dean
Members (at least 2) : Head of Programme or Lecturers
10. The Officer-in-charge of AD (secretary) convenes a meeting of the S.A.D.C and attends the meeting, if necessary.
11. A hearing is done for each case.
12. Towards the end of the hearing, the student is informed that, on the basis of the evidence presented, the Committee will make one of the following possible decisions:
- a. There is no case against the student and no further action is taken or;
 - b. There is circumstantial but not concrete evidence against the student, as such:-
 - i. The student is given a warning letter;
 - ii. The student is sent for counseling by CCC and/or the Head of Programme.
- or;
- c. There is a case against the student who is given the following sentences:-
 - The examination paper or in the case of coursework the particular component of the evaluation is given a zero mark;
 - The examination paper is given a failed grade;
 - The student is suspended for one semester OR asked to withdraw from the College;
 - The student is not allowed to re-sit the paper;
 - The student's I.C. number (without name) is displayed at appropriate places in the campus plus his or her offences and punishment;
 - A letter containing the decisions of the S.A.D.C. together with a warning is sent to the student with a copy to the parents/guardians;
 - The student is sent for counseling by Counseling Centre and/or the Head of Programme.
13. Before the student leaves the room, he or she is told to contact the Secretary of the S.A.D.C the next working day to find out the results of the hearing
14. The decisions of the hearing are recorded in the student's file and signed by members of the S.A.D.C.
15. The Secretary of the S.A.D.C will then carry out the following:-

- a. The form containing the decisions of the Committee is sent to the Associate Vice President, Academics for approval.
- b. * Inform the student of the results of the hearing;
- c. * Put up notices with assistance of Student Affairs Office (six copies), the actions taken according to the decisions of the S.A.D.C. or the Appeal Committee.
- d. * Inform the lecturer concerned, the Head of Examinations Officer and the Head of Programme of the particular programme, if the weightage of a particular component of the course evaluation is given a zero mark; Finance dept. should be informed, if the student is given a one semester suspension.
- e. * Return the student's file to the Office of Admission and Records ("OAR").
- f. * Send a standard letter of thanks to the lecturer who reported the case(s) of Academic Dishonesty.

* The above procedures are only carried out after the student has acknowledged and accepted the decision of S.A.D.C. or in the case of Appeal, it is after the decision of the Appeal Committee.

16. In the event that the student does not accept the decision of the S.A.D.C., he or she may appeal to the Appeal Committee with written fresh evidence/reasons. The Appeal Committee is convened by the respective Head of Programme with the student present.
17. The decision of the Appeal Committee is final. This decision is forwarded to the School concerned by the PC.

PLAGIARISM

What is Plagiarism?

Plagiarism is the unacknowledged use of another person's ideas, words or work. The work submitted by a candidate, if not his or her own, must make clear acknowledgment of the work of others by means, for example, of bibliographic notes or the use of quotation marks with acknowledgment of the original author. Plagiarism may embrace more than a candidate copying the work of others and presenting it as his or her own in dissertation, projects, essays or other submitted work. It also includes reproducing an author's written material from memory in the examination room in verbatim or near form without acknowledgment. In short, students must not pass off the written works of others as their own either inside or outside the examination room.

Methods to Avoid Plagiarism by Students

1. Students should be informed of the consequences of plagiarisms especially in term papers, group projects, report etc.
2. They should be shown the methods in the acknowledgment of another person's work or idea, e.g. the work to be within quotation marks followed by the author's name and year of publication within parenthesis. The source is then cited in the bibliography section.
3. They should be shown the methods of expressing ideas in their own words and not to copy word for word from a text.
4. In a group project, students should write down the names of the members of the groups to indicate a common source of the data. However, the use and interpretation of the data must be in each student's own words. He or she must do the write-up individually without reference to others in the group except where due acknowledgement is made.
5. To discourage plagiarism, the title page of all assignments presented for assessment must include the following statement and be signed by the student:

"I declare that this is my own work except where due references are made".

Procedure for handling Plagiarism

1. The lecturer/tutor refers the piece of work to the Dean of the School;
2. If the student is guilty of plagiarism then a grade of zero will be given for that piece of work;
3. The student will be informed in writing of this decision;
4. The student has the right to appeal through proper consultation with Head of Programme (HOP) or Programme Officer (PO).
